

How to Appeal a TikTok Monetization Disqualification

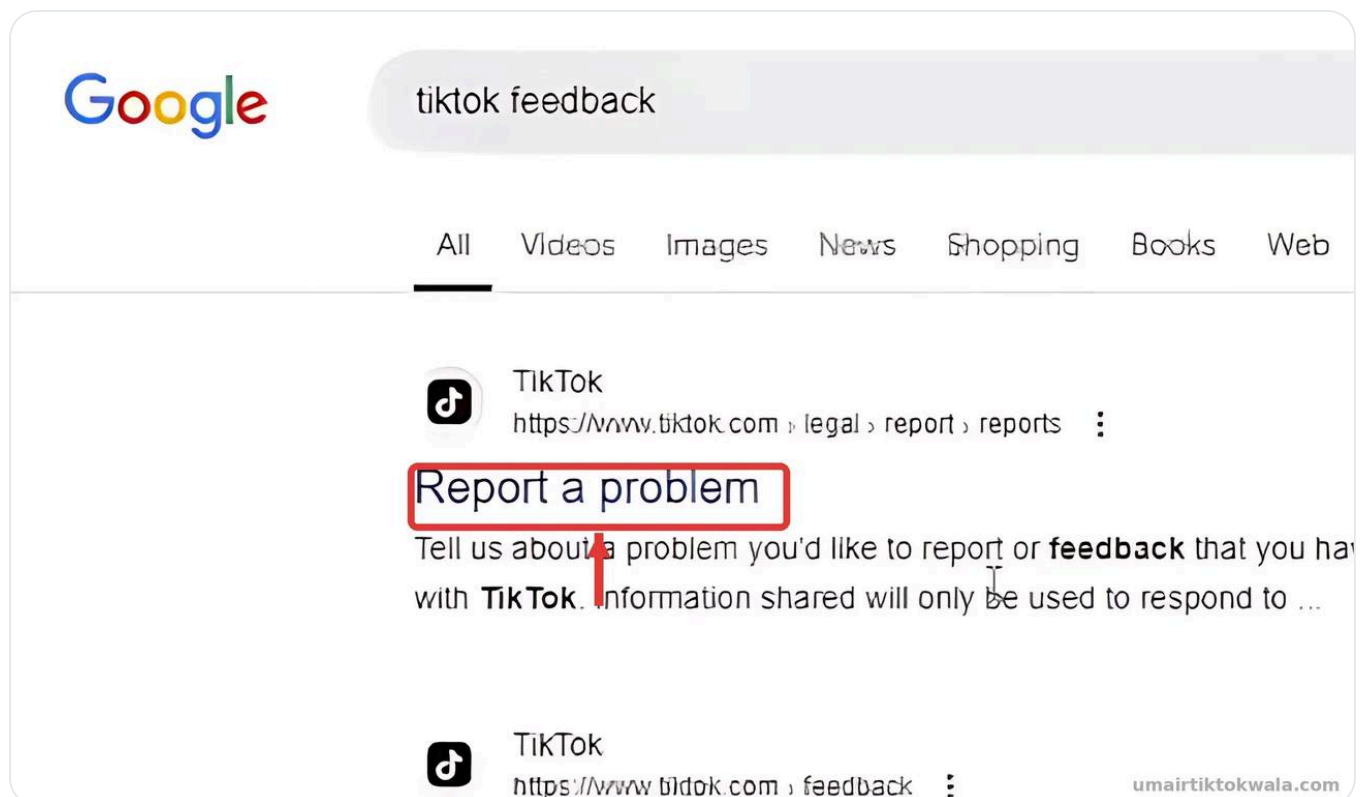

5 steps · Last updated 19 Oct 2026

If TikTok removes you from Creator Rewards (for example for "unoriginal content" or "identity under review") and you believe it was a mistake, you can send an appeal through TikTok's official feedback form.

Before you start, keep ready:

- The email address linked to your TikTok account
- Your TikTok username
- Screenshots of the problem (optional but helpful)
- A short, honest message ready (examples below)

1 Open TikTok's "Report a problem" form

Search Google for tiktok feedback and open the official result Report a problem (tiktok.com/legal/report/feedback). Only use the real tiktok.com website.

2 Choose the topic

your experience with TikTok. Information shared will only be used to respond to your report.

5 Example messages (change them to your real situation)

Identity under review:

Hello TikTok Team, I submitted my national ID card for identity verification on [date], but it has not been approved yet. The name and date of birth on my ID match my account details. Please review my case. Thank you.

Unoriginal content:

Hello TikTok Team, my account was removed from Creator Rewards for unoriginal content. I create my own videos myself (script, voice and editing). Please review my recent videos [links] and restore my eligibility. Thank you.

Common mistakes

- Writing untrue things in an appeal — TikTok can check, and it makes things worse
- Sending many appeals every day
- Using a fake 'support' website instead of tiktok.com
